

URL: <https://stvp.stanford.edu/clips/protecting-intellectual-property>

According to attorney Martin Nichols, entrepreneurs need to have a great deal of trust when sharing intellectual property with venture capitalists, as VCs often will not sign non-disclosure agreements. If a client is working on patentable technologies, Nichols suggests trying to button up those issues before going to meetings.

Transcript

English subtitles are not available for this media..