

URL: <https://stvp.stanford.edu/blog/videos/startup-growing-pains>

Zappos.com CEO Tony Hsieh discusses his reasoning behind selling his company, LinkExchange, to Microsoft. Hsieh explains how working at a startup remained fun, based on hiring passionate friends. However, after reaching the 20-employee mark, startup growing pains made selling a good idea.

Transcript

English subtitles are not available for this media..