

URL: <https://stvp.stanford.edu/blog/videos/the-accidental-entrepreneur>

Paul Yock, Co-Chair of Stanford's Department of Bioengineering and Director of the Stanford Program in Biodesign, describes himself as an accidental tourist in entrepreneurship. He talks about his love for technology innovation.

Transcript

I'm, I guess I'd say, an accidental tourist in entrepreneurship.. Probably like a lot of you out here, I do love technology innovation.. I want to tell you a little bit about that and talk with you, answer questions.. But I have to say my skills in entrepreneurship were acquired just in time and just enough.. And maybe, I'll get a flavor for that...